Letting the chips fall where they may

Water Resources Agency to fund a major share of new odor control facilities has surprised but didn't upset the North San Mateo County Sanitation District Board of Directors, which decided at a special meeting Monday to let the chips fall where they may now.

The directors also decided that a master plan update is needed because the district's treatment plant capacity has reached 75 percent and allocation of the remainder looms as a possibility.

General Manager Peter Archuleta told the board the state had informed him Jan. 23 that the proposed $328,000 odor control project wasn't considered necessary yet and it was believed that "Some operational changes could correct the problem.

The district has been under fire for many months from neighboring Westlake residnts and the Bay Area Air Quality Management Board to clear up the odors from the plant, adjacent to Westlake Park, and has one $466,000 project about ready to go on the centrifuge, digesters, sludge thickeners and head works which it thinks may alleviate the problem. But a third phase, which would put huge covers over the treatment plant's three secondary clarifiers, has been deemed unnecessary for now by

These first two phases may result in "All or a substantial part of the problem being resolved," he contin-

The state water quality people told him that after the first two stages are completed, by around April 30, the district should continue monitoring to see how the odor has been checked out and, if needed, apply again for the 87 percent funding for the clarifier covers, Archuleta said.

The district has been under a Jan. 30 BAAQMD deadline to submit a plan to handle the odors once and for all. That's been done now, "and the ball is in their court," District Sounsel Robert Booth told the board.

On Director William Schumacher's motion, the board voted to accept ne staff recommendation that the clarifier project be put in limbo for now and to wait and see how present odor mitigation measures work out.

District Plant Superintendent Bill Keaney had some good news for the board: Odor monitoring in December and this month had shown less smell than in October and that some operational changes possibly could reduce it more.

because it has had a thinner "sludge blanket," or cover of solids settled on the bottom, Keany said. "This seems to indicate a correlation."

The sludge blankets have been five or six feet deep at peak periods and three to four feet during slack times. three to four feet during stack times, he said, noting that odors from the clarifier last Thursday and Friday were 20 times less than previous readings from the 13 monitoring stations around the plant.

If the sludge settles normally, it could be pumped faster and the blanet kept thinner, Keaney went on, but added that it doesn't always settle evenly, and the process "will get out of whack."

Wednesday, January 30, 1980

Keaney, who has been with the district for about 2½ months, said more staff training, more monitoring and adjustment of pumping rates could be an effective means of cutting the odors, which occur when the oxygen leaves the water in the clarifiers and it's allowed to stagnate. 'But I think we can have consistent control," he said.

Schumacher said after the vote that he thought the district should have the clarifier covers anyway, even if they're not mandated by the

He said he would have a proposal at the next board meeting for having a consultant do an update on the district master plan, which he said now was 12 to 14 years old and out of date in many respects.
Schumacher asked if there would be public participation in the update, to which Archuleta replied that the preliminary update should be done first, then community input invited.

The remaining two million gallons per day plant capacity could serve 30,000 more people. Archuleta

District Engineer Robert Bernicchi told the board that the character of the district's customers has changed over the years. Single-family in the Serramonte area of Daly City have increased from an average of 3.5 to five persons per household over the years, with corresponding increases in water and sewer usage, and that the Westborough area of South San Francisco, served by the district, is being filled with condominium developments. The current 12,000 population of tht area could double in the coming years, he said. Board Chairman Victor G. Kyriakis commented that the remaining capacity "shouldn't cause a race to see who builds first, Daly City or South San Francisco." and suggested that the district look closely at the future of Westborough. "Perhaps Westborough should be put on notice that the suggested that th ice that it may have to look else-where sometime in the future," he uggested.

Bernicchi said there is "no real agreement" with Westborough now on taking its sewage and that perhaps "Residential capacity should be alloresidential capacity should be ano-cated." The alternative for Westbor-ough might be the South San Francisco treatment plant, if it has the capacity, Bernicchi said, noting that Colma and the San Francisco jail facility in San Bruno also are served by the Daly City-based sanitation district, the latter recently increasing ts sewage volume considerably.

He suggested that the district de-velop a priority list for the remaining

Extension of BART part of new plan

What may have been the dropping of the other shoe came before the Bay Area Rapid Transit District Engineering Committee in Oakland last week, when a four-phase, 20-year expansion plan at all ends of the present BART system was presented by the BART staff.

The four phases in San Mateo County, in order, would extend BART to Colma, then to a Chestnut Avenue station in South San Francisco, then to a Tanforan station in San Bruno, and ultimately to San Francisco International Airport or to Bayshore Freeway adjacent to it.

Howard L. Goode, BART direc-Howard L. Goode, BAK1 director of planning analysis, said in his report to the committee that the cost is estimated at $1.7 billion in today's dollars and that what he was recommending now was public discussion of the Phase I extension plan before adopting any policy on the other phases.

This, then, would be the beginning of a series of steps in the near future, which would include alternatives and the series of the se alysis for Phase I, local funding commitments for Phase I, and development and adoption of a right of way acquisition planning policy and program for the future phases.

Goode, contacted in Oakland, said that under current funding programs for BART, "There is essentially no money available now, but changes in legislation on the horizon, particularly in windfall oil profits, could considerably change that picture. In San Mateo County, political and cost-sharing issues must be set-

A 78-year-old cemetery may get historical ranking

Post Staff Writer

The 78-year-old Japanese Cemetery in Colma is one of 27 sites of historical significance to the state's Japanese community submitted recently to the state Office of Historic Preservation.

The Japanese American component of the Ethnic Minority Cultural Resources Survey made up the list, which includes churches, hospitals, recreational facilities and several "nihonmachi," or Japan towns, around the state.

Probably one of the oldest of the potential designated historical sites is the Colma cemetery, a parcel of four acres on Hillside Boulevard, wedged between Italian Cemetery and the northern town boundary.

Land for the cemetery was obtained in 1901, with the help of a Presbyterian Pastor Sturges, a Japanese-speaking clergyman in San Francisco, and who is memorialized on one of the large stone tablets at the burial ground, along with many other Christian and Buddhist clergy who have been leaders in the Bay Area Japanese community.

Until that time, the Japanese con-sul-general had been in charge of burials at various cemeteries, most in Laurel Hill Cemetery on Pine Street in San Francisco, on the present site of the Firemen's Fund building. But the urbanization pressures in The City decreed that it be moved else-

Traffic Engineer Keith Dellaway had recommended against the preferential parking designation of the 800 block of Brunswick Street and of Willits, Woodrow, San Diego and Miriam streets a block of Niantic Avenue, the latter near the city corporation yard.

Petitions submitted last summer claimed that Brunswick was being get to work.

Only the Brunswick residents. three of them, were there Monday night to argue their case before the council. John Heinboeckel, 876 Brunswick, told of commuters' cars being parked at the ends of the blocks while the residents, some of whom have as many as five cars to a residence, sometimes park on the sidewalks illegally.

George Jevicky, 891 Brunswick, said there had been "accident after accident" on the narrow, crowded caused by commuters 'jamming up" their parked cars and running to catch the jitney to work.

Modesto Pena, 871 Brunswick, said commuters park their cars with their bumpers in driveways and that residents with big cars can't maneuver past them.

Heinboeckel said all the streets off Brunswick had preferential parking

The council unanimously approved the preferential parking from 5 to 10 a.m. weekdays, the same as in the other preferential zones, set up originally around the BART station in the past two years to keep BART riders from filling the local curbs.

The council put over the other petition for the other streets to Feb. , asking Dellaway to do another spot survey and ask the petitioners, none of whom attended Monday's meeting, if anything has changed. A hundred years ago a lady who planned to write a biography of Queen Victoria wrote a letter that shows how nostalgia makes its victims suffer.

Scholarship program told

California high school and community college stu-dents began competition for $462,000 in cash awards in Bank of America's two annual scholarship programs.

Some 300,000 graduating seniors from virtually every high school in the state will compete for more than $345,000 in the Achievement Awards program, and more than 160,000 second-year students from California's 105 community colleges will vie for $117,000 in cash in the Community College Awards program.

"With the Achievement Awards program entering its 32nd year and the Community College Awards its 27th, we are again looking forward to this opportunity to assist promising students in their academic careers." commented Lee Gomez, the bank's school awards officer. Faculty committees in each high school are now selecting top students in four general study areas - fine arts, liberal arts, science and mathematics, and vocational arts. The individual school winners will compete March 27 with students from neighboring schools in semi-final zone events. Zone winners in Northern California will then move on to five regional finals and the chance to win one of 20 first place awards of $2,000 each. Second and third place winners each receive $1,000 and $750 respectively. All-other finalists receive $500 awards.

In the Community College Awards program, faculty committees are selecting top students to represent their schools in four fields — business, science-engineering, social science-humanities, and technical-vocational.

These students will compete March 26 in area events. Winners in Northern California — two in each of the four - then move on to the finals April 23 in San categories

Center in trouble; ex-employees hit conditions

By TERRY DAVENPORT

Funding problems are forcing trustees of the San Bruno Park School District to take a second look at a district-sponsored child care program operating in the for-mer Edgemont School.

They are scheduled to decide the fate of the program at a special meeting Jan. 30 in the district office at 500 Acacia Ave. The time of the meeting has not yet been set, but it probably will begin at 7 p.m.

The district's financial worries about the San Bruno Child Development Program stem from compliance problems with the state, which allocates federal funds to the child care operation.

Superintendent Dr. Robert Rottman reported last week that the district lost $4,900 on the program last year and stands to lose another $14,000 by June if steps are not taken.

Two former employees of the program said they feel that the quality of care and staff morale are adversely affected by conditions at the center which should have been corrected by now.

In operation since December 1978, the program was licensed to serve 50 youngsters last year and is licensed to care for 56 children this year.

The program is sponsored by the district, which subcontracted the task of managing it to Dell Green Associates of Foster City for a fee of $30,000 last year and $25,000 this year.

Representatives from the state Office of Child Development have ordered the project to lower its child-teacher ratio, install another toilet, add a staff lounge. put in a fence between a play area and a parking lot, and improve sanitary conditions.

Delores Eggers, a Dell Green employee who is director of the program, said, "We are well aware of our shortcomings, but there's a lot that's been done here to rectify those shortcomings

She said the program will receive $7.000 more in parents' fees as soon as more teachers are hired (at a cost of $5,000), that the project has improved sanitary conditions and that making another toilet available "is just a matter of restructuring."

Ms. Eggers said the district is waiting to get direction from the trustees on Jan. 30 before spending any additional money on a lounge or fencing.

Two teachers who worked at the center said the problems run deeper than compliance problems listed by the state.

Both said they wouldn't want to have their own children enrolled in the program.

Diane Langfelder, who was head teacher of the center's infrant-toddler program for two months last year, said she quit because "working conditions were very poor and I felt as though, if I continued at the present level, I would burn myself out."

She said she began speaking up about the problems two weeks after she started working there and stayed longer because "I thought I could do something."

According to Ms. Langfelder, she finally gave up because none of the conditions improved.

In addition to the problems mentioned by the state, she said she felt the yard equipment was inappropriate for the toddlers playing there, staff morale was low, lunches provided for the younger children were too high in starch, there wasn't sufficient training for teachers, and there weren't sufficient educational supplies.

"I even bought toys out of my own pocket," she noted.
She said the workload was heavy because there was no one except teachers to do maintelack of fencing next to the parking lot caused teachers to be very restrictive in dealing with the chil-

Ms. Langfelder said she be-lieves the "bottom line" of the center's problems is a lack of any money — a problem that she noted is "common" among child care programs.

"Everyone is really dragging their feet. Nobody wants to take the ultimate responsibility, which turns out to be financial," she remarked.
Linda Heard worked at the center as a teacher's assistant and teacher for five months before she resigned effective this week.

Her main complaint, she said, is that the center is a "dumping ground" for children who "aren't getting the individualized care and

Ms. Heard said most of the staff members are untrained, that new equipment that supposedly was ordered never arrived, the food was "awful" and repairs were of a "band-aid" nature.

She also said that the program is not meeting the objectives stated in the proposal it submitted to the state and that "this pro-gram is a waste (of) the taxpayers' money, because their money is not purchasing what the govern-ment agreed to buy."

Ms. Eggers denied that the center is a "dumping ground" and said, "It is not the quality of care we want but we are working toward that.

"Everybody wants to comply with the (state) rules and regulations but the problem is money she said, noting that "monies for the program are kind of limited to do some of the things we had written in the proposal we should (do)."

Ms. Eggers termed the first year of the program as "a year of growing pains" that "happens to any agency. They (the state) don't put a lot of money into child

One problem, she pointed out, was that "the state gave us more money but they didn't tell us until October how many more children we had to enroll."

By then, the center had begun the school year. Mrs. Eggers said that the result has been that "right now we have to over-enroll in order to earn that money in order to pay our bills."

She said the district tried, without success, to get permission from the state to serve fewer children with less money.

The project director agreed that staff turnover is a problem because of the low pay and minimal hiring requirements. She said the state specifies only that teachers in such programs be 16 years old. have had a physical exam and 'like children.

With starting pay of $3.57 an hour, she said, "We get largely

Ms. Eggers said there is no effective way to train teachers "when you're open 11 hours a day." But she said the center does hand out reading materials to

"In the infant room, we're not even required by state law to have a credentialed person. I disagreed with that law and hired a creden-tialed person," she noted.

Ms. Eggers also said that she gave Ms. Langfelder $100 for supplies and told her there was no need to buy toys with her own

She said Ms. Langfelder was "well aware" that getting more supplies "was one of the things we were working on.

Ms. Eggers defended Dell Green, saying, "They have done a fantastic job of keeping together the financial end and processing

Yet, she said the district could reduce the program costs if the management consulting firm were

Ms. Eggers explained that the district cannot currently apply for federally paid teachers under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act or for the statefunded child care food program because Dell Green is a profit-making company.

With another system of fiscal management, she said. "of course, we won't have the level of professionalism Dell Green was giving us," but she said she be-lieves "the potential for success is

"The problems are not insur-mountable," she said.

She stressed that child care centers are sorely needed in this area, as she said her waiting list of 75 students proves, and added that she hopes that child care advocates will attend the Jan. 30 meet-

Superintendent Rottman said he feels that continuing misunderstandings with the state over funding for the program are the root of the problem. He noted that the state "led us to believe the program could be self-sufficient and that there were ways of dealing with the financial problems. Ultimately, they said, You're going to have to find the

He said he intends to offer trustees four alternatives at their Jan.
30 meeting for eliminating the projected $14,000 deficit:

1. To have the district absorb the losses and allow the program to continue operating in the same

2. To arrange for Dell Green Associates to lower its $25,000 annual management fee (which Rottman said he doubted the firm would do) or to reduce some other major cost of the program, such as the $12,000 annual rental charge.

3. To replace Dell Green with another subcontractor that would manage the program for a lower

4. To allow another agency to take over the program and run its without any affiliation to the school district.

Ms. Langfelder, Ms. Heard and Ms. Eggers all declined to endorse one of those alternatives.

Ms. Langfelder said her main desire is that "the district, hopefully, will have learned something in dealing with a private agency so it won't make the same mistake

Ms. Heard explained that she hopes the district will find another agency to operate the program "so that it won't take a lot of money to do nothing."

Ms. Eggers said the trustees' decision will depend on a lot of "What I would like to see happen, regardless of how it hap-pens," she said, "is that the program stays right here so that continuity of service would be re-tained for the parents, children and the staff. However they work it out would be fine with me."

Fogarty heads Transit District

A new face and a new chairman took their places on the San Mateo County Transit District board of directors this week at the Daly City Civic Center

Daly City City Councilman Albert Teglia was sworn in Wednesday as a director, replacing Mark S. Savage, a Pacifica city councilman who has announced he will not run again in the April 8 municipal election

The new chairwoman is Mrs. Janet Fogarty of Millbrae, one of the public representatives on the board since its inception in early 1975. She replaces Savage, another charter mem-ber of the board and an elected city representative.

Savage could have remained on the board until his Pacifica council term expired, but the North County Council of Cities, which makes the elections, opted for Teglia instead in November, after Savage had announced his decision to step down. Savage's SamTrans board term still has two years to run.

Elected vice chairman of the board was Millbrae Mayor Frank Cannizzaro, appointed to fill a vacancy nearly two years ago. He takes over that post from Mrs. Fogarty.

Four directors were sworn in for new four-year terms. They included Cannizzaro, Jack Bland of Atherton and C. Robert Payne of Pescadero, citizen representatives, and county Supervisor Edward J. Bacciocco.

Carpeteria The Supermerket of the Carpet Industry

Before he stepped down, Savage praised the board for its lack of "politics" and said, "I think we got more done than any other group I've Addressing Teglia, he said, "You're going to enjoy it, Al. It's a fast track."

Bacciocco complimented Savage

for his "effusiveness," and "whole-hearted devotion to the district."

Payne added his praise for Sav-ge's "sincere and deep interest in youth, the less fortunate and the handicapped."

Reward offered by Society

The Peninsula Humane Society of San Mateo County is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for the tragic death of a female Black Labrador Retriever caught by her right front-paw in a steel jaw trap.

The dog was found by 18-year-old Greg Gogna of Half Moon Bay in a brush-laden area as he was walking his own dog.

The trapped Labrador was dead when Cogna discovered her. He reported the find to the Peninsula Humane Society, Jan. 17 and Officer Rusty Hockabout and Sergeant Kurt La-pham of the Animal pham of the Animal Control Services Department responed to the scene.

Upon Investigation, the two humane society offices discovered that although only one trap had captured the animal, another trap was attached to the fist and both were staked into the ground with a chain and grappling hook.

There was no way the dog could have freed herself. However, there were sign of a struggle for life by the dog, for she had wrapped her body around a tree in a fight to free herself and end her torment. It appeared that the dog had approximately one week and had slowly died from a combination of exposure, dehydration and starvation.

Steel jaw traps are still legal in the state of California. However, the Peninsula Humane Society is launching a campaign to ban the personal ownership. use and sale of traps within San Mateo County.

During the past year, the Humane Society has responed to calls of various domestic and wild animals caught in this type of trap.

Among those animals was a domestic tabby cat, found in a San Mateo school yard, whose leg was severed by

racoons and opossums

Each year, family pets are killed and maimed by these traps, as well as local wildlife. The traps present a danger to children and adults who happen upon those traps. With this them unknowingly must check the trap every 24 hours. In the case of the dog found dead in Half Moon Bay, it is clear that the trap had not been checked within the required

The boys tennis team has just started up again this year, with their first meeting Jan. 23.

The Jefferson High School District Board has passed a ruling stating that the one unit of credit given out during the strike cannot be made up by fulfilling one unit of credit time in the required class.

The unit of credit can only be made up if the student enrolls in and completes a semester of the course he needs, which is normally worth five units of credit.

This ruling affects mostly the civics and English classes. For example, five units or one semester of civics is required for graduation. If any senior enrolled in civics did not attend Serramonte during the strike or failed the course during that time he lost one unit of credit and, therefore, only received four units of the required five units of credit. The student in this situation either has to enroll in another semester of Civics or take an equivalent night school course.

This week is finals week, with the end of the semester coming to a close Jan. 31. Friday, Feb. 1, there will be no school for students at Serramonte.

Rams win battle of NPL unbeatens

By TIM MENICUTCH

Fear works in strange ways especially on the basketball court. After playing "scared" for nearly the entire second half. Westmoor High guard Derrick Johnson calmly dribbled the ball upcourt, oblivious to the deafening crowd, with the clock on the edge of expiring.

Johnson pulled up from 25 feet out and swished a jump-shot with 0:02 left, and the crowd went wild. The basket gave Westmoor a 59-58 win over host Jefferson Friday night in the battle of North Peninsula League

Johnson had picked up his fourth personal toul in the waning seconds of the opening half, and played in that precarious position for the final

"I was scared to play hard in the second half," said Johnson. "I knew I had to keep my hands to myselt. and couldn't drive for fear of picking up an offensive foul.

In the final seconds, with the game on the line and no need to worry about fouls any longer, Johnson finally cut loose.

I love those situations," said Johnson. "They don't bother me at all. When those situations arise. I know it's my job to shoot. I'm confident I can bit a hoop when we really

The game unfolded like an Alfred Hitchcock thriller. Jefferson, after trailing throughout, pulled to within one, 55-54, on Zack Alexander's follow shot. Eddie Conlan put Westmoor back ahead by three with a pair of free throws.

Jeff's Ken Mackey countered with an outside swish, and with 1:09 left Westmoor retreated into a four-corner oftense.

Jeff's Richard Rodgers became impatient and collided with Johnson. A foul was called, but Johnson missed the front end of a one-andone. Jeff hustled down court but missed its shot. The rebound resulted in a jump ball. Jeff controlled the tip but with 0:21 left, committed a traveling violation.

Westmoor Coach Tony Giamonna called time out and sent in a trick play. Instead of inbounding. West-moor threw the ball behind the bas-

"I almost lost us the game," said Giamonna. "I was so excited about using the play, that I forgot we were awarded the ball on a traveling viola-

"Even after we got into foul trouble tonight, we didn't quit," said Giammona. "Even if we had most this game. I still would ve been awful

"I was just going to the basket," said Johnson of his game-winning shot. "I looked up at the clock, and there were four seconds left. I had to put it up. It felt good all the way, but "I think we're the best team in the county now," said Johnson. "We proved we can heat Jefferson. We work hard together, we play well together, we love each other. It's a great feeling."

The game started out at a fast and furious pace. Westmoor, determined not to be intimidated, actually outran the quick-tempo Indians. Johnson had seven points and five rebounds to help lift Westmoor to a 23-18 lead. Westmoor surged ahead by as many as 16 points midway through the second stanza as Jeff hit a icy spell, missing from all over the court.

Just as Westmoor seemed to take control of the contest, Jefferson flipflopped the momentum with a flurry of scoring just before the half. Jeff's Freddie Burks grabbed an offensive board and laid the ball in as the half ended to cut Westmoor's lead to seven points. It was Westmoor's turn to have trouble finding the hoop in the third period. Alexander drove inside for a lay-up, Ernie DuPree hit a graceful shot and Alexander muscled inside again as Jefferson evened the score at 41 with 4:01 left in the quarter. The teams traded hoops in the third quarter before the fourth quarter fireworks got under way.

Johnson had an all-around super game with 13 points, game-high 14 rebounds and two assists. Teammate Keith Dowdell added 13 points and collared seven rebounds. DuPree paced Jeff with 17 points, and Rodg-ers contributed seven boards and five

Jefferson withstands Rams' charge

High's girls' basketball team was going to run away with the game.

The Indians had a 15-foot secondquarter lead, and seemed as if they were only a punch or two away of thoroughly putting Westmoor down for the count.

But the Rams turned on their fullcourt defense instead and climbed slowly back into the game.

Then with 1:09 left in the contest,

Westmoor guard Teresa Abrahamson stole a ball and passed it to Pam Chuck for a basket to cut the Jeff lead to one point, 64-63. But that was the end of the line for the visiting Rams. Jeff's Susan Aton sank a pair of free throws with four seconds left for a 66-63 Jeff win

What hit them was Missy Firpo, Jefferson's 5-9 junior center. Firpo, perhaps the NPL's best passer among frontcourt performers, also proved that she can take the ball to the basket, completing four three-point plays against the Rams. Firpo wound up with 29 points.

Westmoor improved when Jill Brophy started playing well. Brophy, another in the long tradition of topflight Ram backcourters (Gloria Smith and Verna Castro, now at game-high 31 points in the second half.

Westmoor grapplers triumph

cisco High in a North Peninsula League wrestling match Friday Westmoor has moved into a firstplace tie with NPL powerhouse Oceana.

Westmoor's 34-23 win over the Warriors gave Coach Ray Schnapp some cause for celebration, although Oceana is sitting in the league's driver seat.

In other matches, Terra Nova upended Serramonte 48-18 and El Camino downed Jefferson 56-12

The Rams got pins from Albert Caceres and Bill Prevost in their win over South City. Mike Guigone. Brad Santiago, Paul Sangervarsi and Chris Custer were other winners for Westmoor.

It was especially satisfying to me because, even though, as you know, I rarely make predictions in this column (what do I know, compared to The Experts?), in my own, personal heart-of-hearts I thought that the Rams had a real chance Not because they were so good, or that Pittsburgh's past record against them wasn't; not because they were playing at "home" or on natural grass - but because I become very suspicious when The Experts start calling a person or a player "the best of all time." Terms like "the best" and "great" are thrown around much too easily by the media, and whenever such terms start permeating the atmosphere, that is the time, it seems, when "the great" and "the best" get knocked off. Not because of irony, but because they are not in fact "the great" or "the best." Maybe just "very good" or "outstanding." True greats come along perhaps once in a generation, and there can be only one "best." I must admit I began to waiver in my convictions when Jimmy The Greek picked the Rams to win, 20-17. I beginn worrying, at that point, that it would be a rout for The Rams lost, but they did it in such a way so that my convictions weren't shattered and to, at the same time, substantiate the fact that Jimmy The Greek still is living on his reputation as the man who bet Truman to Our old rivals lost to the spread, but certainly didn't play like 11 point underdogs or 12 point losers. Pittsburgh proved to be a very good team that could win under pressure; but also a team that had to connect on two desperation bombs in one quarter to/pull it out. vers arrived at by scientific deduction. No, they were a couple of desperation bombs thrown by an outstanding and worried quarterback to an excellent tall wide receiver who was lucky enough to have to contend only with a couple of 5-foot-9 defenders.

So you think they were cold, calculated plays, you say? Then explain to me why they weren't called in the first quarter.

The facts are that the Rams were able to handle Franco Harris better than he had ever been handled in a post-season game (and thus handle the Pittsburgh running game), and that they ran better than anybody had been able to run on Pittsburgh in weeks, which meant that they were then able to pass on Pittsburgh better than most teams have been able. As a result, the Steelers needed two bombs to win, and the fact that they were able to summon them up when they needed them is very commendable

But it ain't necessarily "great

Well, naturally. Jack Tatum has already explained all of that to us. That's what football is all about - blocking and tackling. And the most effective way to block and As I mentioned last week, in discussing the Tatum case, football is a sport designed to be brutal; which must be played brutally by brutal men (at least on the field) for survival. There is nothing wrong with that, if it is, as they say, your cup of tea, Personally, I prefer, as team sports, basketball and

As for my grand old game of baseball, it seems to be getting more gentle, if anything. Knockdown pitches are barely brushbacks, anymore, and if a baseball player can manage to stay in his room and watch television on road trips, he hardly ever has to be worried about being incapacitated.

If you want to know why statistics can sometimes lie

The San Diego Chargers tied for second in the NEL points scored, 411 (with New England and behind Pittsburgh's 416), and were second in least points allowed (246 to Tampa Bay's 237), which means they scored an average of 10 more points per game than their opponents Houston showed just a 31 point differential FOR THE WHOLE SEASON, yet you know where they ended up in relation to San Diego.

In writing of the Olympic quandary last week I said that I would withhold my opinion until I could give the issue more careful thought. I have, and here's my careful

Now, at one time in our society, this wouldn't have been an acceptable moral stance (women, after all, wer en't allowed as spectators in that Olympic era), but since women reporters now are being allowed into locker rooms, and men into women's locker rooms, what possible difference could it make, except in terms of degree What's the difference if 10 reporters "see" athletes in the buff, or 10s of millions?

Meanwhile, nobody would know what country any of the athletes represented, nor, in all probability, care. It's a simple solution, if the Russians could come up with something a little more extensive than hand warm

My Peke, Jo-Jo, has been licking his feet — all four of them. He spends most of his waking hours doing this. He's 13 years old and in good condition. His feet are gradually turning redish-yellow. I'm afraid he may wear his tongue out. Someone told us that he may be doing this because we have moved about four times in the last year and a half. Could this bring on a nervous reaction? L. K. Answer:

There is an ingredient in Jo-Jo's saliva which causes the hair on his feet to turn reddish in color. The only wa to control it is to eliminate the cause of his licking which is probably some type of irritation to the skin.

In some cases extreme nervousness can cause a dog to start licking at his feet and this may be a problem with Jo-Jo, but I don't think moving him would cause the nervousness unless there was a change in ownership or some other extremely stressful situation.

Boredom can cause this habit and can be prevented by increased exercise, a change in routine, more play time, etc. A veterinarian can determine if there is a physical cause for the licking and help you to correct it; if the cause is psychological, you will have to work with it in the home

What is newcastle Disease and how is it spread? I've been told that it has something to do with birds. J. P.

Newcastle Disease is a very serious disease affecting many, but not all types of birds. It is caused by a type of virus called a myxovirus and spreads rapidly from one bird to another among caged birds. The disease is especially common and troublesome in parrots. Perhaps the greatest significance of Newcastle Disease is in the poultry industry where Newcastle break-outs can cause the destruction of millions of dollars worth of birds. In poultry, it is spread from one flock to another by wild birds. There is a vaccine for the disease, but it produces a relatively short immunity.

This is a disease that has vast economic significance to both the pet bird and poultry industry. Individual birds that are infected show symptoms of a respiratory disease with mucus from the nostrils and eves, loss of weight, fluffed up feathers and diarrhea.

If the bird survives, he will often show central nervous system derangement. Many birds die very suddenly without showing any symptoms.

Laboratory tests are necessary for diagnosis. As with any pet, the purchase of a bird should be entered into carefully and with adequate planning. Try to deal only with legitimate pet shops and try to obtain a record of vaccinations and a history of were the bird originated.

Good morning, good cooks

When we have a spell of cold weather the idea of cooking a stew or a pot of soup or chowder seems particularly appealing, doesn't it?

Thinking along these lines brought me to my record file and I rediscovered an unusual and delicious chowder I'd forgotten all about.

Usually when we think of chowder, we think of clam chowder, don't we? There are many varieties of this old favorite and the one I want to share with you today uses frozen succotash as its main ingredi-

Investigating interests

By ARVILLE FINACOM

There's an old education adage that says one decides upon his or her life's work between the ages of 10 and 12. When I first heard that statement, I was sitting in an "Overview of Elementary Education" class trying to make up my mind if I wanted to become a teacher or not.

I thought back. What had I been doing when I was 10? The answer was easy. Writing. I wrote poetry, stories, begged to do the family letters and usually answered questions on school tests in complete and complex sentences. But how would that ever tie in with teaching?

The instructor's voice brought me back from personal reverie with his further comment that one rarely achieved one's life gial immediately. But if one's career tasks made use of any of the goal's

All of this by way of introduction to Advanced Programs in the Millbrae School District. According to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Edward Muehlhausen, who oversees AP, it provides different opportunities for selected fifth and sixth graders than those available in regular classroom activities.

In effect, AP provides students at these impressionable ages with chances for interest investigation unavailable in the routine course of events.

Currently, Mary Stella Flynn and Jeanne Bertini, coordinators of Advanced Programs, are assisted by Diane Brahney in presenting an ambitious series of experiences to the 80 youngsters who have elected to be involved.

Students eligible to participate were selected by teachers and principals in Millbrae's five elementary schools on the basis of being ones who "could profit from the experience" and who would be both "willing and able" to make up classwork missed during the weekly Thursday morning AP time.

Students are identified loosely as "gifted and talented," for whom the state of California recommends "enrichment opportunities." Although Dr. Muehlhausen acknowledges that there are administrators in Millbrae who believe AP could be considered "elitist," providing something for a small group which should be provided for all, he personally does not see that it is.

"People are different." he says. Advanced Programs simply gives different opportunities to those who are different already in the way of being academically talented and gifted. The Millbrae

Board of Trustees concurs and AP carries on.
What kinds of experiences are offered? Last Fall, Mrs. Flynn and Mrs. Bertini listed a number of areas which had proved interesting to young people who had been in the program in previous years as well as ones they believed might interest today's students. They contacted potential presentors, people who had already worked in AP as well as those recommended by others. After receiving replies, they set up and published topics for the sixteen program series.

Kick-off Jan. 10 featured Sonoma State and Skyline College Entomology Instructor Ray Peterson who introduced students to "bugs." That the youngsters were interested was evident in that they sat relatively still on uncomfortable cafeteria folding chairs to listen to what easily could have been an introductory lecture in a college entomology course.

Advised beforehand to bring insects for identification if they wished, several interested students surrounded Peterson during recess break, picking up specific information about the ones they had collected. Peterson also brought his own insect slides illustrating his lecture comments.

Yesterday, John Keeling, a professional cartoonist, led students through the steps to successful cartooning and helped them learn and practice cartooning techniques.

Tonight, the first of AP's Family Programs will be presented. Nuerosurgeon Dr. Joseph Izzo will talk not only about the road one follows on the way to becoming a doctor and specialist but also will explore brain damage, especially motorcycle head injuries, a subject with which he is very familiar and in which he is vitally interested.

AP involves not only in-school speakers, but field trips as well. Students will visit the Oakland Museum, the Stanford Linear Accelerator, and Lawrence Hall of Science on the University of California Berkeley campus.

Sixth graders only will have an opportunity to tour the Levi Strauss Factopry in San Francisco as well as visit Taylor Intermediate School.

Thursday morning presentations include one on Toy Inventions by Paul Brown, inventor of the "Whizzer." Brown is a popular guest in Millbrae schools having brought his toys several times to local assemblies.

Special Agent Lee C. Pointer talks about the FBI one morning in February. In March, Ross Milliken, a graduate student in physics on the UCB campus and president of the local L-5 Chapter talks about space exploration, opportunities and settle-

Ella Ellis, author of children's books, will discuss writing and help students see how dramatic effects are achieved. Before her presentation, students will have a chance to read her popular book.

Jacqueline Blake, an artist who has studied Smi-i painting in Japan not only will demonstrate her skill but help students experience it for themselves. She also plans to assist students with origami, the oriental art of paper folding.

Two additional Friday evening family presentations are scheduled. In February, David and Lynn Stone will bring computer terminals along for use of participants. The Stones will explore both school and home use of computers as well as look at the 'current state of the art.

In March, the topic is environmentalism under the title "Here Is Where We Are," and I'll be the guest presentor using slides, stories and exhibit material to enhance awareness among participants of our place on earth, especifically here, where we live, in San Marteo County and the Bay Area.

Maybe not everyone settles on his or her life's work in pre-teen years. There probably are a lot of us, such as I, whose career tasks still have not led to full time realization of that early goal. But if AP in the Millbrae schools provides opportunity for just a few out of the many to find grounds for such a decision, it will well be worth the time, money and effort expended in it.

MGM plan underway

By ROSIE TETADA and KAREN WONG The Mentally Gifted Minors (MGM) program has been adoped at Jefferson High School for the first time in the program's 10-year existence. One of the objectives of the program," according to advisor and Jeff foreign language teacher Wim Beriner, "is to make available extra-curricular activities and cultural information to those students with a better than average intellect. Beringer and a group of 28 students recently attended a showing of "Moliere," a 4½-hour film of the life of the great French comic dramatist of the 17th century. Excursions such as this as well as visits to symphonies, art exhibits, museums and restaurants featuring foreign foods are a part of the activities

'Young people," he comments, "are not exposed enough to these thins. The program may help them appreciate the cultural aspects of life, and to make them more 'all-around' persons. The MGM program at Jefferson has been subject to charges by some students as being, "biased and unfair.

"It's a competitive program," comments Frank Brady, Jefferson guidance counselor. "It's an equivalent to the CSF (California Scholarship Federation) in the each has strict standards to follow. The students have to show that they excel in academic

Identification of a "mentally gifted" student is made by an identificatin and placement committee consisting of the school principal, a classroom teacher familiar with the student's work, a credentialed school psychologist and any other person of persons designated by the district office.

The committee will gather evidence as to the student's "general intellectual and scholatic capacity," including a complete screening, a psychologist's summary and evaluation, IQ test scores (a MGM hopeful must have an IQ of 120 and above, or score at or aboe the 98th percentile), two required test scores, both of which must be at or above the 98th percentile, and judgments of teachers, psychologists, administratos and advisors familiar with the student's potential.

There are allowances that may be made by the committee for those students identified as "culturally disadvantaged" (having language, cultural, economic, or environmental handicaps that could prevent the full development of their potentials) or "underachieving scholatically." (Capable of achieving at the upper two percent level if not being culturally disadvantaged.)

Not more than five percent of the enrollment in each school shall be identified as mentally gifted minors. Written consent by the pupil's parents or guardian is required.

Wilson Riles, the superintenden of public instruction, must approve the proram before it actually begins at Jefferson. Beringer hopes to get it started within a month or so.

Money for the state-funed proram was made available to the district upon request, and every school in the district received about $2,500 this

Walking into Jefferson's room 204 at 2:30, one will encounter 14 students who are working hard on layouts for the yearbook.

"Ready for the 1980s" is this year's theme for the to-be-the-best-yearbook-ever.

Although the strike had prolonged the beginning of the assembly line, the yearbook staff is now working quickly but carefully-trying to meet, and maybe beat, the Yearbook Company's deadline dates. Other reasons for not starting on the yearbook were that many staff members were inexperienced, advisor Linda McLean was on maternity leave, and "civilian" photographer Joe D'Gorman would not cross the picket lines.

D'Gorman cannot come onto campus every day because he has business elsewhere, so there are others, such as photo teacher Micheal Eldridge and good photo students, taking pictures.

Yearbooks have been on sale since Jan. 25. On that day, there was an opening sale in which year-books cost only $10.80. Now they are sellin for $14. The cost may be high, but there will be many things to look forward to, including eight pages in color

Student Editor Debbie Tringali says that this will be a great yearbook. Last year there were several mistakes, but she says, they were the publisher's fault-not the fault of Jefferson's yearbook

SPORTS ASSEMBLY

Jefferson's second teams were introduced to the student body at a sports assembly Jan. 18. Cheerleaders cheered and coahes articulated.

Ironically, the varsity and junior varsity squads of both the boys' and girls' teams were undefeated. Ron Fassler introduced his JV girls: Nina de la Rocha, Manny Enriquez, Janet Pabon, Annabelle

Andreas, Taalodo Mulitalo, Maria Acosta, Theresa Garcia, Corina Rhoades, May Chow, Ulu Militalo. Laura Kahapea, Tina Ahkiong, Linda Vetari. Amanda Lansang, Tinniae McConnico and Gloria Alhamra. Members of the varsity girls team, coached by

captains Tom Spencer and Rory McLeod, John Banfield, Teru Davenport, Joey Loyola, Joselito Gonzaga, Eddid Alemany, Eric Alexander, Junior Coats, Mark Terry, Dino Miller, Martin Ticas. Terry Walker and Rolando Johnson.

Bud Bresnahan introduced co-captain Ernest Dupree, who introduced the rest of the varisty basketball defending league champions: co-captain Richard Rodgers, Kenneth Mackey, Freddie Burks, Jay Williams, Abel Delgado, Thaddeus Gill, Byron Gill, Calvin Peters, Blake Stewart, Roerick Jenkins. Zack Alexander, and managers Louie Pezzola, Eric King and Ricky Esponilla

Three persons — a 20-year-old Foster City girl, a 17-year-old Daly City youth and a 79-year-old Redwood City man - died during the weekend from injuries suffered during the past week in auto accidents, the coroner's office reported this

Chief Deputy Coroner Robert Jessen reported that Mary Fox, 20, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Fox of 723 Niantic Drive, Foster City, died in the intensive care unit of Mills Memoria! Hospital Saturday morning of injuries suffered in an accident on Jan. 20, on Delaware Street north of 25th Avenue in San

According to a police report, Miss Fox was southbound on Delaware when an auto pulled out, causing her to lose control of her vehicle, which crossed the street and struck a parked auto.

No commitment

San Bruno City Council members didn't take a stand on San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein's proposal for restructuring San Francisco International Airport when the topic came up at their Monday night meet-

But they voted unanimously that San Mateo County's Board of Supervisors shouldn't make any commitment to the plan before the county's residents vote on it.

Under the plan, the airport would be "run like a business," Mayor Feinstein says, by a joint powers authority created under a contract between San Francisco and another governmental jurisdiction, presumably San Mateo County.

The joint powers authority would lease the airport from San Francisco, assume all oustanding debts by refinancing existing bonds and issue revMary's Help Hospital in Daly City of injuries sustained in an accident on Highway 1 south of Skyline Boulevard in Daly City last Friday. According to a police report, Larmey was southbound when he apparently lost control of his car, which rolled over, throwing him out. Three others in the auto were injured, according to police.

W. Lloyd Vestal, 79, of 1340 Rosewood Ave., San Carlos, died early Monday in Sequoia Hospital.

According to Redwood City police Vestal suffered fatal head injuries last Friday when his moped ran into the side of an auto at the intersection of Veterans Boulevard and Woodside Expressway in Redwood City.
